

I took some photographs around Bucharest, looking at all the different types of buildings. from these pictures I produced some drawings.

I started to look at different angles.

I like these as it makes the building more ~~static~~ dynamic.

This picture is a typical street in the centre of the city.

There are lots of new buildings being built next to old buildings. Lots of renovations are taking place.

Some buildings using different techniques

Some of the old church
spires in Bucharest

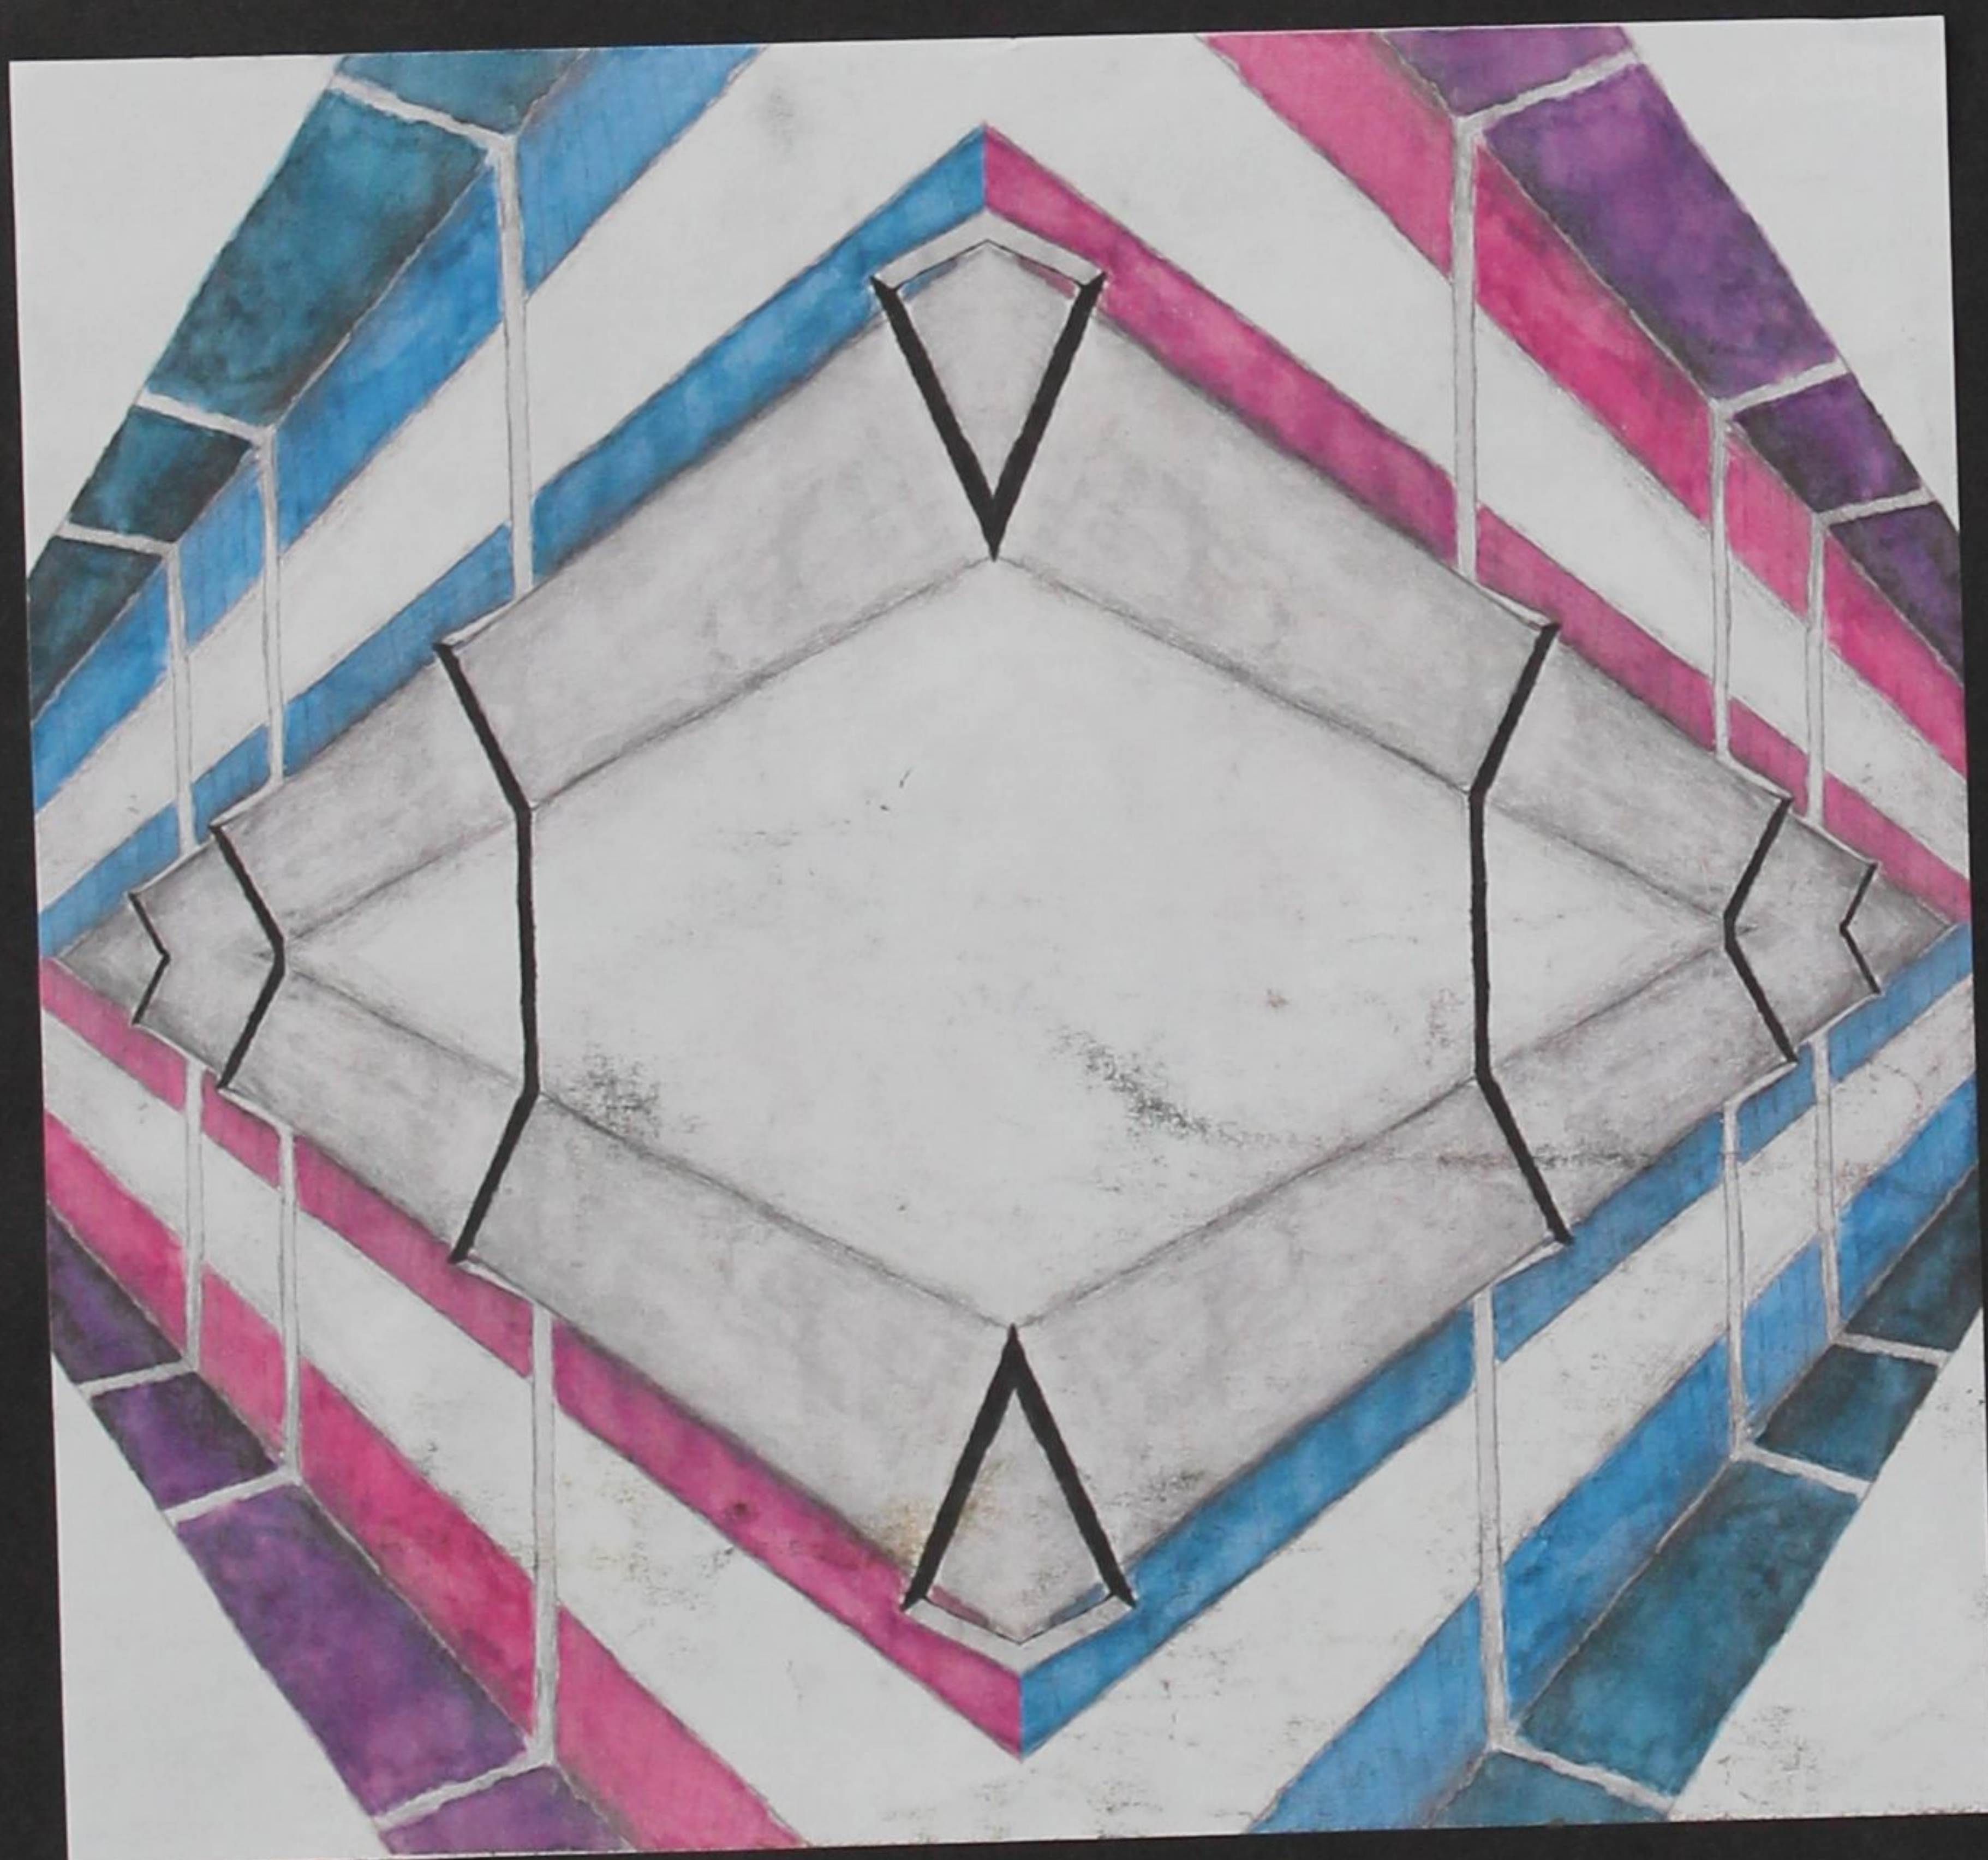

A collage
using photocopies
of photographs
as a background.

This is the centre of Brasov 120 Km from Bucharest.

I took one of My pictures and experimented in Photoshop. I then experimented with techniques on how to produce the final picture.
